Our Lady around the world

The Rwandan genocide has earned its place as a hellish period of human history. In the hundred days that followed the assassination of Rwandan President Juvénal Habyarimana, on 6 April 1994, an estimated one million Rwandan Tutsis were slaughtered by their own countrymen, many even by their next-door neighbours. The brutality of the event shocked the entire world.

One village that became the site of two large massacres was Kibeho, a place where, 13 years earlier, Our Lady appeared to three schoolgirls in what became Africa's only Vatican-approved apparitions.

The Girls

Alphonsine Mumureke was the girl to whom Our Lady first appeared on 28 November 1981, at a high school that was one of the poorest schools in the country. Mumureke beheld a beautiful woman in a seamless white dress, with a white veil over her head. When the young girl asked the woman who she was, the reply came: 'Nyina wa Jambo.' In English: 'I am the Mother of the Word.' Our Lady came asking for faith.

There were two others to whom she appeared. The second was Nathalie Mukamazimpaka, a 20-year-old girl who witnessed an apparition two months later, in January 1982. In March of the same year, Our Lady appeared to a third girl, the most unexpected of all.

Naturally, there were discordant points of view at the school about the veracity of the apparitions. Some believed; others didn't. Marie-Claire Mukangango was a girl who was most well known for being sceptical of the apparitions and particularly vocal in her disbelief. When it happened that Marie-Claire began claiming to have witnessed an apparition as well, the tide began to turn in favour of belief.

To all three girls, Our Lady would appear many times, but it was to Marie-Claire that she gave the primary message she wanted to give: that of the Seven Sorrows Rosary, which she wanted spread to the entire world. At first, Marie-Claire could hardly believe what was being asked of her. She didn't have the money to travel to the next city, let alone spread this message to the world.

Our Lady replied: I have many children in the world. You do your part, and the grace of God will take it to the next person.
